MDC accounting professors were so effective in communicating their passion for the accounting profession to their students, that they left lasting imprints on four young men who became partners at Jordan Castellon and Co., LLC. Between them, Arturo Jordán, Carlos Castellón, Edwin Ricardo and Arnold E. Nazur now have 80 years of experience in all facets of public accounting and international taxation, with clients ranging from real estate and nonprofit organizations, to entertainment and professional athletes. They credit MDC with teaching them the kinds of professional and entrepreneurial skills they would need to be successful. "MDC provided us with the discipline and work ethic needed to succeed in life," says Jordán, the firm's managing partner.
